

TECHDIGEST

The UK and Europe's premier site for news, reviews and opinion on consumer electronics and gadgets

Reviews Mobile phones Top stories Video Reviews HDTV Music players  SEARCH

BETNOW

paddypower.com

« YouTube Video of the Day - The incredible glass illusion! | Main | Eco Air Hand Crank charge - eco-friendly mobile charging »
Groove Cruise II - tunes from your music phone in the car

There's an endless number of iPod-friendly FM transmitters, but as many of us keep our music on our phones - and indeed carry our phones with us more than our MP3 players - a transmitter like the Groove Cruise II from Cygnett could be a shrewd investment.

It's very much like any other FM transmitter, using a free frequency on

£100 for your mobile phone

but how much would mobile

Model

Start with something small

7.9% APR (typical)

Latest Videos

Groove Cruise II - tunes from your music phone in the car

There's an endless number of iPod-friendly FM transmitters, but as many of us keep our music on our phones - and indeed carry our phones with us more than our MP3 players - a transmitter like the Groove Cruise II from Cygnett could be a shrewd investment.

It's very much like any other FM transmitter, using a free frequency on your dial to playback your music. And as it's a generic transmitter, it offers six connectors, which should suit most phones and PDAs. If you're worried about yours, check out the compatibility list at the Cygnett website.

Powered by the cigarette lighter socket in your car, it retails for £49.98.

Find out more

Came straight to this page? Visit www.TechDigest.tv for all the latest news.

Posted by modculture on May 4, 2007 in Mobile phones | Permalink

techdigest.tv
August 2007